

I am writing because I currently am signed up on the State of Indiana no call list. Over the past few years I have become very annoyed by all the calls that I receive from telemarketing people. It had become so bad that my family could not set down for dinner without being called by someone selling something. Since I signed up on the no call list I have not been bothered. I am expressing my concern over any attempts by the Federal Government to change this current no call list. Leave it in the hands of the State, they are doing a good job. I do not want to be bothered by people trying to sell me something over the phone. Not only are they wasting their time, because I WILL NOT purchase anything over the phone, but they are harrassing me and my family. DO NOT TOUCH THE CURRENT INDIANA LAW.

Thank you,
